Project: Nursery school in Makunduchi

What is the idea?

The place Makunduchi in the Southern District of Unguja has over 10 000 inhabitants. Currently there is a lack of nursery schools in the village. The classes in primary schools in Makunduchi are often overcrowded and can consist of up to 100 students. The consequences of the missing infrastructure are often low pass rates at the end of seventh grade. That's why we want to build a nursery school together with the local population. So that the children can come into contact with early childhood education from the age of three and have a better start into their primary school years.

Who is involved?

The chairman of the nursery school project is Mohamed Muombwa, who works in the office of the second Vice President of Zanzibar and has been involved socially in the region for many years. In addition, the project is supported by german students from Leipzig and members of African Roots e.V., who have been to Zanzibar several times and have recognized the importance of this project.

What are the first steps?

In summer 2019, we want to build the foundation and walls of the building in the first construction phase. Overall, the building will consist of three classrooms, three toilets, a staff room, a headteacher office and a materials room. The total price for the new nursery school will be around 23,000 €.

How can we help?

In order to start the lessons at the new nursery school in Makunduchi in the year 2020, we depend on numerous small and large donations. We want to complete the school building in just two stages of construction in summer 2019 and January 2020 in order to make the construction as efficient as possible.
